

The Real You
By: Sunny Trehuba

Everyone sees things differently.
Maybe negatively,
Maybe positively.
Maybe abstractly,
Maybe clearly.
It's all about perspective.

You see, it's not about how others see you.
It's about how you see you.
It's about deciding who you want to be,
And not what everyone wants to see.
Just because you don't see something good in yourself,
Doesn't mean it's absent.
It is only failure to not see how amazing you really are.

The real you.

The you that has potential,
And talent.
The you that has purpose,
And meaning.
The you that doesn't see the surplus of inner beauty,
But only sees the lack of outer.

Because you are one-of-a-kind.
And you are the best there is.